TOURS

Wednesday, May 16th, 12:00 – 5:00 p.m.

Georgia Department of Natural Resources Coastal Resources Division

Participants will spend the afternoon with the Georgia Department of Natural Resources aboard the R.V. Anna, a 60-foot research vessel that is used to help monitor important coastal fisheries and the economic health of Georgia's coast. Learn how federal, state and local laws and the agencies and governments charged with their implementation have worked together over the years to conserve the natural resources and character of one of Georgia's most sensitive areas. In addition to dropping the shrimp nets and exploring what researchers catch and monitor along the coast, expect to see pelicans, birds and other marine life on this exciting voyage!

Participants will also learn about a coastal management program that Georgia is working with the federal government to pilot. The program focuses on federal, state and local government interaction when it comes to disaster preparedness and recovery – especially after large weather events.

Casual Dress and Soft Sole / Closed Toe Shoes are recommended.

Thursday, May 17th, 12:00 - 5:00 p.m.

Federal Law Enforcement Training Center (FLETC) Glynco

Participants will tour the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center (FLETC) Glynco campus, which is located equidistant between Savannah, GA, and Jacksonville, FL. The Center is actually a town unto itself with its own zip code (31524). It is known as Glynco, GA, Glynco is the headquarters facility for the FLETC. It is situated on 1,600 acres in southeast Georgia with modern conventional facilities such as classrooms, dormitories, and administrative and logistical support structures.

Additionally, Glynco has 18 firearms ranges, including a state-of-the-art indoor range complex with 146 separate firing points; and eight highly versatile semi-enclosed ranges with 200 additional firing points. Other training assets include a sprawling complex of driver training ranges, a physical techniques facility, explosives range, fully functional mock port of entry, and numerous other structures which support the entire training effort.

Among these is a 34-building "neighborhood" practical exercise area, which includes houses equipped with video cameras for recording various kinds of practical exercises. The classroom buildings house various special purpose areas including a library, interviewing suites, mock court rooms, computer forensics laboratories, and other laboratories for fingerprinting and identifying narcotics.
